

BRUCE HALLIDAY

It is with deep regret that we announce the death of BRUCE HALLIDAY, who was killed when his aircraft, an AD-6, went into the water after a deck launch from the USS INDEPENDENCE, operating in the Caribbean. He leaves behind him a widow, Diane, and a 15-month-old baby boy. Bruce was a soft-spoken and modest guy who went to the Academy with one goal in mind, which was to become a Naval Aviator. We grieve his loss but at least we can say he died doing what he thought was most important in life - flying.

SHIPMATE, January 1963